Piacenza Historical estate for sale in the province of Piacenza

DESCRIPTION

This historical estate for sale is in a high position in Emilia Romagna, surrounded by Piacenza's valleys.

This estate is composed by a typical 15th-century tower, which was once used as a defence against enemies, and by an older main body which was most likely designed by Jacopo Barozzi da Vignola, the architect who gave his contribution to the realization of Piacenza's Palazzo Farnese.

Surrounded by Piacenza's valleys, this estate for sale was entirely refurbished in the 1970s and, despite its architectural and historic importance, it is not bound by the Artistic Heritage Office.

In addition to the main body, this property also includes some agricultural buildings and an outbuilding for staff, bringing the total internal surface to approximately 1,300 m2.

This historical villa is home to spacious and bright rooms furnished in a refined style and featuring original 16th-century materials such as cotto-tiled floors, high coffered ceilings, wooden beams, and period fireplaces.

This villa for sale in Piacenza, in the heart of the Po Valley, is perfect for those who need big spaces and for those wishing to invest in a historical estate which may be easily adapted for tourism. Important cities such as Milan and Bologna are about an hour drive away by highway.

TECHNICAL DETAILS

LOCATION

Piacenza is located in the heart of Po Valley, on the right side of the river, where the rivers Trebbia and Nure meet, and is surrounded by hills.

Its geographic position halfway to Milan was militarily strategic and has also determined its current function as an important railway and road hub.

Founded as a Roman colony with Cremona in 218 b.C., Piacenza, home to this castle for sale, was sacked several times due to its boundary location, however, it became an important colony of the area. Piacenza was governed by bishops from the 9th century to 1090, then it became a city-state. Afterwards, it was ruled by the Visconti and by the Sforza until 1449, when it became part of the State of the Church and then capital of the Duchy of Parma and Piacenza. After the Napoleonic Age, when our castle for sale was built, Piacenza was ruled by Marie-Louise of Hapsburg and then by the House of Bourbon until 1859.
